

APSI & Wilderness Wear Pro Deal Offer – 2021

This is an exclusive offer for APSI members to continue to support an Australian manufacturer who continues to use Australian Wool and made in Australia with merino wool sourced from the farm in Tasmania.

Wilderness Wear first supported the APSI Demo Team for snowboard and Telemark @ Interski Korea in 2007 with wool thermal tops and socks.

This support has continued with APSI. Bruce Easton from Wilderness Sports Jindabyne was kind enough to give Ben Jackson a pair of the wilderness wear socks to trial when I went to training in Japan and onto Bulgaria for Interski 2018.

"I found the socks really comfortable, not too hot or cool in the conditions and great quality. I have since purchased another 2 pairs for the upcoming season. I love that they are Australian wool, Australian owned, as well as the socks being made in Oz too! A real trifecta! Highly recommended."

Take a look at them for the value they offer and durability and performance. They are great for ski and snowboard for performance fit. Being a "mid" compression sock you will find less muscle tension or fatigue at end of day. Also the socks have sufficient padding and cushioning. Being 80% wool, no problems with thermal performance and can wash and wear.

Check the other brands and labels and see where they are made and ensure you get wool & what you pay for. Also check on fabrics & content i.e. Bamboo is not a winter performance product. Feels "nice" and soft but clearly does not wick moisture and dry quick time.

Wool treated in China is treated with variable treatments of bleaches and scouring.

Of course many socks are made in various factories and branded but recommend you check and assess the wool content and place of manufacturer and also wool used.

Wilderness Wear is pure Tasmanian sourced merino wool; treated in Australia to high European ecologically sustainable practices. The Wilderness Wear product is manufactured in an Australian owned facility where the product is tracked and controlled from start to end product in Melbourne.
